DynamicDialogue™

Beyond business as usual

DynamicDialogue™ Workshop for Non-profits

Communication in a Time of Polarization

Do you find yourself saying, "I just do not understand why they…" or, "my views are misrepresented and when I try to explain I shut down"? One thing seems clear: we are not hearing, listening, or understanding each other. The longer this goes on, the more polarized, divisive, and violent we become.

DynamicDialogue gives us skills and practices that help shift the ways we engage each other to make a dramatic difference in our relationships.

Come and be a part of an experiential process where you will learn and practice the art of dialogue. This is an introductory day to invite you into an experience that has changed lives in ways that open hearts and minds to others' viewpoints. We will unlock doors of awareness, compassion, creative freedom, and interdependence as foundations for meaningful ways to mutually define and commit to the common good. Call (916) 648-1803, ext. 14 or email AmandaB@breadoflife.org, or visit www.breadoflife.org to register.

Cost: $10 for Lunch. *Tuition and Materials are Free.

When: September 14, 2017, 9:00 AM to 4:30 PM | Where: TBD

Meet Our Facilitators

Jean Holsten is the Director of Dialogue Programs for Bread of Life, a community-benefit educational non-profit in Sacramento. She is a licensed attorney and has been the Executive Director and/or staff of non-profits since the early 1990's. Jean works with individuals and groups looking for a more efficient, productive and meaningful way to engage with others in business, government, community and political work practices. With others, Jean created the DynamicDialogue™ program after training and facilitating other programs nationally and internationally for more than a decade.

Brenda Kress has over twenty-five years of experience working with trade and charitable non-profits and has provided leadership mentoring, team building, facilitation and community outreach services. She enjoys working with organizations wishing to experience a culture shift through skill building in mindful leadership and communication. Brenda feels her strength lies in developing relationships with leaders and individual team members. She looks forward to expanding her reach by creating healthier communication dynamics in organizations working with those who are critically and terminally ill.

We are grateful to the Mercey Springs Foundation for providing the grant to fund this workshop for non-profits. Visit their website at www.merceysprings.org.*
